

Troop Committee Member Duties & Responsibilities

The Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmasters, working with the Patrol Leaders Council, are responsible for planning and carrying out the Troop's Scouting program, ie:, campouts, advancement work, Troop meetings, etc.

The Troop Committee and Committee Members' primary responsibilities are supporting the Scoutmaster in delivering a quality Troop program and handling Troop administration. For administration, the Troop Committee Members have three roles. First, they are the "Board of Directors" of the Troop, making sure that the Troop has a good Scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmasters, that the program the Patrol Leaders Council puts together with the Advice of the Scoutmaster complies with the Boy Scouts of America's rules and regulations and with the needs and desires of the Chartered Organization, and that the Troop has sufficient resources (financial, facilities, equipment) to carry out the program. Second, the Committee provides administrative support for Troop operations by keeping advancement records, writing checks, arranging drivers, filing Local Tour Permits, making camp reservations, etc. Third, individual Committee Members serve as advisors for various youth leaders of the Troop, such as the Scribe, Historian, and Librarian.

The following are the general duties and responsibilities of the Troop Committee Members including those holding specific committee positions. This is not intended to be a complete list, rather a list of the more commonly performed functions or responsibilities of the committee members. It should also be stressed that boy involvement is imperative throughout the implementation of these activities.

Committee members are defined as adults who are registered with the Troop and parents/guardians of Scouts who are registered with the Troop.
